Dear Sir or Madam,

I am extremely upset by the impending legislation to limit the practice and distribution of compounding drugs. These drugs are in no way a threat to public health. I use a compounding pharmacy and I would do anything to continue. Don't the big pharmaceutical companies make enough money on their patent drugs? When did healthcare become completely about money? Compounded drugs are excellent medications. How dare you try to restrict pharmacists from recommending compounded drugs? This is outrageous; I am also writing to my senator and state representative about this matter!

Sincerely,

Anastasia Maggi
